Obtain the transfer code for a .be domain name

The transfer code is the code you need to move your domain name from one agent to another or to transfer it to another holder.

The transfer code for .be consists of 5 series of 3 numbers separated by dashes, example: 157-397-971-824-125

The transfer code is only sent by email from DNS Belgium to the mailbox that owns the domain name.

You can request the transfer code via this page: https://www.dnsbelgium.be/fr/code-transfert

If the domain is authorized for transfer You can send the transfer code to the owner's mailbox (check your spam).

The fact that your domain is prohibited from transfer is an action that should normally have been carried out by you at your host. Some hosts block the transfer when registering a domain name, which is normally prohibited by DNS Belgium.

To authorize the transfer of your domain name to our services, you must connect to the platform of your current host (registrar) and unlock the "registrar lock".
